WILDY'S BOOK NEWS

Volume 19 Issue 3 Published Monthly

Mar/Apr2014

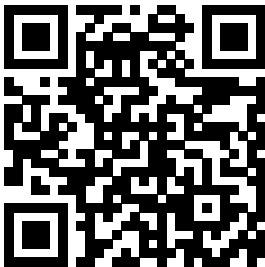

This month we have two new titles published: Cyber Crime by Matthew Richardson and Russian Law and Legal Institutions by William Butler. See our new publications at the end of the Book News for more information or visit our website.

We held our first Publishers Party which was attended by a large number of our suppliers for drinks and nibbles. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves so it is likely that this will become an annual event. There are pictures on pages 2 and 3 following.

The big event this month, in terms of scale, was the publication of the White Book. These are hand delivered around the Inns by our staff on the day of publication, along with our usual complementary umbrellas.

Keep an eye open for an interview with one of our publishing team in the Law Society Gazette in an article on how to write a law book.

THE REVIVAL OF PRIVATE PROPERTY AND ITS LIMITS IN POST-MAO CHINA

XU Ting

Law in East Asia Series

Price: £65.00
ISBN: 9780854901333
Extent: 245 pp
Binding: Hardback

This monograph examines the nature and significance of the re-emergence of private property in rapidly changing post-Mao China. In examining this issue, the study explores a key dichotomy in Chinese law, that is, ‘public versus private’, and examines the manner in which the Chinese define ownership. The study stresses the importance of lack of clarity in the boundaries between the public and the private in property rights. While there is a limited move towards the recognition of private property in real estate in contemporary China, this analysis also shows that ownership in the law, and ownership as understood and practised socially, often diverge significantly. ‘Modern’ conceptions and theories of property rights emerged in the context of nation-building from the late Qing onwards, and unitary and exclusive property rights were considered as ‘badges’ of modernity.

This analysis of the nature and the social and political implications of re-emerging private property rights provides important insights for our understanding of the changing nature of modern China.

Foreword by Adrian Leppard, Commissioner, City of London Police

As computer technology has advanced – and along with it the development of the internet – the utility and benefits that they have brought with them have made them indispensable to modern society. With the ever increasing reliance on such technology and its pervasiveness in personal and professional life, it was inevitable that it should come to be used in ways which society has decided are contrary to the public interest and therefore worthy of disapprobation and criminal sanction. To this end, Parliament has found itself having to legislate in order to criminalise certain acts involving computer technology which did not exist prior to the development of the technology. On the other side of the law, the courts have found themselves having to redefine the application of pre-existing criminal law in order to accommodate and incorporate the novel ways in which computer technology can be used to commit criminal offences.

This book is the first book to tackle the fast growing topic of cyber crime and covers a wide range of topics from electronic fraud, cyber stalking, online theft and intellectual property to more involved topics like malicious communications and the rules of evidence relating to cyber crimes and computers.

Through the use of detailed case studies, examples and statutory extracts the reader is able to understand all aspects of cyber crime and computer crime. Cyber Crime: Law and Practice provides a practical, easy-to-follow guide for practitioners in the field, as well as those in law enforcement and academia.

Matthew Richardson is a specialist in electronic and hi-tech law, serving the first ever injunction via twitter, and obtaining several ground-breaking hi-tech orders since then. He is an Alderman of the City of London, Justice of Peace in Central London and a barrister at Henderson Chambers.

RUSSIAN LAW AND LEGAL INSTITUTIONS

William E Butler

Studies in Russian and East European Law

Price: £65.00
ISBN: 9780854901449
Extent: 426 pp
Binding: Hardback

An extensive introduction to the historical and contemporary foundations of the Russian legal system placed in the larger fabric of comparative legal studies, this volume addresses: The Russian Legal System in Context (Russian Law in Comparative Legal Studies; Russian Law and Legal Translation); The Foundations of Russian Law (The Pre-Revolutionary Heritage; Russian Legal Theory; Sources of Law: Legal Profession and Legal Education); The Administration of Russian Legality (ministries of justice, judicial system, procuracy, notariat, registry for acts of legal status, administrative commissions, law enforcement agencies, investigative agencies, arbitration; and the role of non-State entities); and the State Structure of the Russian Federation (Presidency, Federal Assembly, Government, Local Self-Government). Recommendations are made for further reading. The 1993 Constitution of the Russian Federation as amended in February 2014 is appended.

William E. Butler is The John Edward Fowler Distinguished Professor of Law and International Affairs at the Dickinson School of Law, Pennsylvania State University; Emeritus Professor of Comparative Law in the University of London (University College London); Foreign Member, National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine and National Academy of Legal Sciences of Ukraine; Associate, International Academy of Comparative Law.

LAND REGISTRATION MANUAL

Second Edition

David Rees

Price: £95.00
ISBN: 9780854901296
Extent: 635 pp
Size: 229 mm x 152 mm
Binding: Paperback

Written by an author who has extensive experience in private practice, the Land Registry, and the academic sector, Land Registration Manual is a concise but authoritative source of technical and practical advice on all matters relating to registered land and interests affecting it.

The book's alphabetical (A to Z) approach allows practitioners to zoom in on the specific topic they are dealing with, knowing that the book will provide useful background commentary, along with clear guidance on the form and content of relevant Land Registry applications, which are specific to that topic. The topics are geared to aspects of day-to-day practice rather than areas of law as such – making it easy to use and more relevant to busy practitioners, enabling you to come up with the answer(s) you need, rather than trying to 'fit' your practical problem into one or more broad sections of a book.

Land Registration Manual covers not only the usual subjects, but also many less frequently encountered topics which are often not covered elsewhere. Thus its coverage extends not only from transfers to leases, but from bare trusts to franchises; options to powers of attorney; and chancel repair to embankments and sea walls. Each topic contains accurate commentary to aid understanding and clear guidance on the relevant applications which may need to be made to complete a transaction or protect a client's interests. This makes the book an invaluable 'one-stop' source of guidance for busy practitioners, from partners through to paralegals, and for students through to academics.

David Rees is a solicitor with 25 years' experience initially in private practice and latterly as an Assistant Land Registrar at HM Land Registry. He is an External Examiner to the Solicitors Regulation Authority, an External Tutor to the CILEx Law School and an experienced lecturer and author.
